San Diego Restaurants That Let Your Furry Friend Tag Along For Some Good Eats

The sun is blasting us with its sweltering heat...such a ruff life that we have living in coastal Southern California. I almost feel like it should be a law that all restaurants should have patios in California, then we wouldn't have to worry about where to take our dogs. Since that isn't the case, we searched out some of our favorite places to enjoy outside dining with our pets. Grab the dogs and head to any of these cool pet friendly hangouts for a frosty beer and some amazing bites. Yes we all love going to the beach with our furry friends and throwing the frisbee around in the park, but sometimes we like to stray from the routine, especially when it involves us ending up at any of these sweet pet friendly spots. What better way to spoil your beloved furry family member than taking them out for a meal? Instead of getting that adorably painful "please don't leave me" look when heading out the door, bring them to these San Diego restaurants with dog-friendly patios.

Lumberyard Tavern

For a fun beachside excursion with man's best friend, head to Lumberyard Tavern in Encinitas on the 101 and enjoy a meal on their Fido-friendly patio. A few bites of a burger might "accidentally" fall under the table for your dog to enjoy as well. You can top off celebrating Love Your Pet Day with a coastal walk, as Lumberyard is right next to a pathway by Swami's.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. and until Brazen runs out, order two huge smoked beef ribs with two sides and choice of bread. Throw Fido a bone for an extra special Love Your Pet Day treat.

For a family and dog-friendly venue in a relaxed beach atmosphere, find a spot on Pacific Beach or Encinitas Fish Shop's patio. Salmon is a good source of omega 3 fatty acids to keep your dog's coat healthy and shiny and to support his or her immune system. With the option to customize how the fish is seasoned and served, the fur baby can be treated to a bite of salmon on February 22 at Fish Shop.

Up in Solana Beach, treat your pup to the ocean breeze on Pillbox Tavern's patio. Le Parfait Paris

Imagine sitting in the streets of Paris with your dog perched next to you as you nibble on croissants and sip on a French vanilla latte. The café menu features savory dishes, baked goods, coffee, tea and signature cocktails, but the crème de la crème of this establishment is its decadent pastries and desserts.
