

San Diego Food Finds Blog

Host A Holiday Party

November 21, 2016 Maria Desiderata Montana

Food and Drink, Food and Wine, Food Events, Food News

The holidays are here whether we are ready or not! From book clubs to work events, this is the busiest time of year to host large holiday parties. Here are five local San Diego hotspots to help you take the stress out of your holiday party planning this year!

Located in the heart of the San Diego Gaslamp quarter, Union Kitchen + Tap boasts an array of flexible dining space, perfect for your holiday gathering. With four separate dining options to choose from, Union is your place for hosting anywhere between 60 to 360 guests for your holiday celebration. To learn more about their private events and to make a reservation, visit the website here.

Embrace the beauty of simplicity at Farmer's Bottega in Mission Hills. Offering an extensive banquet package, simply choose the area of the restaurant you would like to reserve and select your meal package. Farmer's Bottega encompasses farm fresh ingredients in each of their meals with their farm-to-table eatery that your party will swoon over. To view the entire package menu and to learn more, visit the website here.

For an all-inclusive event, Barleymash and Ginger's is your one-stop shop. Theme your event with flower arrangements and linens, event photographer, event invitations and e-vites, apparel design, graphic art and print work, and private event entertainment such as a DJ, live entertainment, etc. You can also get a special menu made custom for your event along with beer, whiskey or wine tastings/pairings for your guests. To download their complete special events guide with information on how to book, view the website here.

For an evening within the unique sense of community in Pacific Beach, Backyard Kitchen + Tap is the place. Backyard offers the perfect culinary experience for everyone with an extensive list of craft cocktails and local beers to choose from. To learn more about scheduling a party or special event, visit the website here.